FIELDSENSOR™

FIELDSENSOR™'s multilayers use capillary action to whisk perspiration away to the fabric outer surface where it quickly evaporates. The wearer stays dry and comfortable.

FIELDSENSOR is a trademark of Toray Industries, Inc.

TORAY

Outer layer (Liquid diffusion/evaporation)
Middle layer (Liquid moves to outer layer)
Inner layer (Liquid absorption)

Perspiration Skin

Perspiration vapor/moisture

The graduated structure of FIELDSENSOR™ consists of a loose inner layer and a dense outer layer. This configuration creates capillary action that quickly disperses perspiration throughout the outer surface for rapid evaporation.

Organic cotton is a natural fiber and more ecological than synthetic fibers because it is a renewable resource and biodegradable. In contrast to cotton, water consumption in the cultivation of organic cotton is significantly less as well as the use of environmentally harmful chemical and synthetic fertilizers and pesticides. This makes the organic cotton is particularly environmentally friendly.

- made of synthetic fibres that wick away moisture and dry quickly, keeping the wearer comfortably dry.

MARINEPOOL

Ocean Collection – yes we care!

For more than 30 years Marinepool has been one of the leading brands in sailing clothing, maritime lifestyle and life-saving appliances – Spirit of the Ocean has been the focus from day one.

The oceans cover over 70% of the planet and are essential to life. They are not only the basis of food, but also largely responsible for the global climate system and water supply. A conscious and sustainable handling of this sensitive ecosystem is of central importance. Marinepool is also aware of its responsibility and has been producing high quality products for years – because longevity is the basis for sustainability. Thus, our love and dependence on water have led us to focus on preserving and protecting the water.

The next logical step is to use recycled fabrics. For this reason, Marinepool has specially developed the OCEAN collection on the occasion of the company's 30th anniversary.
